

I was appalled to hear that The Federal Communication Commission is considering overturning New Jersey's 'Do Not Call' law. Although maybe more stringent than the federal program, the New Jersey law has been very effectively provided a quiet dinner time for our family. My friends and relatives also like it this way. The telemarketers have many other (less obtrusive) channels to reach consumers. Blocking uninvited calls should be every one's right no matter he/she was an ex-customer of any business or not. Please think again. Thank you.
